NEW EDMONTON.

Word was received here on Monday from Regina to the effect that South Edmonton people were endeavoring to have the name under which they sought incorporation changed from "Minto" to "New Edmonton."

The following telegram was at once sent off to the local M. L. A. by Mayor Edmiston: "Reported here that South Edmonton desires to change application of name of Minto to New Edmonton. On behalf of town council and citizens of Edmonton most protest most strongly against incorporation under that name, or to interfere with the name Edmonton in any way under incorporation."

NEW HOSPITAL.

Subscriptions are coming in liberally for the new public hospital to be erected here. Already an amount has been subscribed from private sources only, sufficiently large to enable the directors to proceed at once with the erection of a building and W. S. Edmiston, in the play was quite in action, the new building will be solid brick, two stories high, and so constructed that wings and additions can be easily added. Block 12, river lot 14, (on Klondike avenue immediately north of Moore & McDowell's old lumber yard) has been purchased by the directors as a site for the hospital.

Court Beaver House, A. O. F., have offered to furnish a double ward for general use, which offer the directors have gratefully accepted.

MOFFRE CO.

In "Fanchon the Cricket," their opening bill, the Moffre company made a big hit last night. The play was quite in action, the costumes pretty, the acting good—and the specialties best of all. It was a continuous performance, commencing at half past eight and lasting until half past eleven, mainly free from waits between acts and its only unpleasant feature was the cold-blooded contention of the lines to allow the introduction of advertisements at the local merchants' wars. If the company's other productions are as good as Fanchon the Crickets they are deserving of, and should receive, the liberal patronage of the public, and are entirely too good to be used as advertising mediums.

The bill to-night will be "The Midnight Call," a sensational comedy drama in three acts.

A. O. F. SMOKING CONCERT.

The members of Court Beaver House, Ancient Order of Foresters, invited their friends last Tuesday night to an at home in the form of a smoking concert in Houston's Hall. Two long tables were provided with cigars and refreshments were prepared and at nine o'clock 60 guests and members sat down for a pleasant and sociable evening.

W. G. Gardner took the chair and called on all present to welcome a toast to "The Queens, our patronesses" which was conscientiously done. The chairman then delivered an address on the Ancient Order of Foresters; their principles, work and financial standing, and touching on the advantages to be derived from such an order. The following programme was then rendered: Toast, "The Queens, our patronesses"; address on A. O. F. G. W. Gardner; solo, J. A. Beebe; song, F. Whitley; reading, C. de W. MacDonald; song, H. W. There is nothing that gives a person more pain than an ill-fitting boot. It always reminds you that there is something wrong.

We have known men (a woman would not do it) who would buy shoes that did not fit, because they were cheap. That is not economy, because one sacrifices five dollars' worth of comfort for a dollar or so.

We sell shoes that FIT, made after the shape of human feet.

Our range this season is the most complete we have ever shown, comprising the very newest lines produced.

For women we carry the celebrated "BELL" SHOES which is synonymous with comfort, style and durability. Try a pair.

TURKISH RUG AND CARPET CLEANING PROCESS

T. J. FURNIVAL, Manager.

I respectfully call your attention to our new cleaning process, the only method in existence which will take Grease Spots, Paint, Coal Dust, Lamp Black, Soot and Stains out of Carpets. That carpets cleaned by this process will remain clean as long as new carpet, has been fully tested; that it is absolutely MOTH PROOF and will restore the colors; that it is a disinfectant, rendering the carpets clean and healthy when sickness or disease has been in the room. We ask a candid investigation of our work. Our process of cleaning is no longer an experiment, but a demonstrated success since 1884. It raises the nap and leaves it soft like new, and restores the lustre of their original brilliancy. It covers everything and is a perfect cleaner. Drop us a card or leave orders at Potter & McDonald's and we will be pleased to call and show you samples.

SESSION NOTES.

OTTAWA, April 7, 1899.

The debate on the address, which after Sir Hibbert Tupper's speech, became the Yukon debate for a time was continued on Wednesday by Borden, conservative M. P. for Halifax, in reply to Hon. Mr. Sifton. He held that the government was responsible for the acts of its officials—that due regard had not been paid to the complaints received, that the commission of investigation appointed was not properly constituted or empowered, and that the commencement of its work had been unduly delayed, knowledge of these complaints had reached the minister before July 15th, 1898, and Mr. Ogilvie did not begin his investigation until February 1899. Allowing two months for transmission of the mails each way a period of five months had elapsed between complaints being made and action being taken. He read a long list of specific charges amongst which were a number made by Messrs. Allen and Semple, of the Klondike Nugget, who had just arrived from Dawson, and were then in the city. Part of their statement was that they had in their possession passes for entrance at the side door of the gold commissioner's office bearing the office stamp and initiated by some of the officials. It included a number of specific cases giving names and amounts paid for valuable inside information. In one case $400 had been paid by a man who could be produced before a proper tribunal. Herdman, an official, connived at the jumping of a claim for a third interest. The claim was afterwards restored, but Herdman was still in government employment. Mr. Borden objected to the papers laid on the table by the minister as being the lease of the celebrated water front for $30,000. There was no lease contained, only a couple of letters. The official mail had been delivered regularly at Dawson from October until January, but during that time no private mail had reached Dawson by government carrier.

Fraser, liberal, replied in an eloquent speech. It was unfair of Borden to charge that five months delay had taken place in regard to the investigation now going on, when the records showed that five days after the complaints of the miners meeting received Ottawa, the commission to Mr. Ogilvie was despatched. Prior, conservative, Victoria, B. C., opened the debate on Thursday and added to the list of specific charges against Yukon officials. A customs official had accepted a bribe of $5 and a flask of whisky for passing goods dutiable to the extent of $350 at $150. McCarthy, independent, interrupted the Yukon discussion with his first speech, devoted chiefly to a statement of his position on the trade and language questions. He was in favor of a tariff favorable to the consumer, and distinctly against the recognition of any official language but English west of Lake Superior. He is tall, handsome and of very pleasing appearance and speech. Ross Robertson, independent conservative, proprietor of the Toronto Telegram, delivered an eight minute speech in which he demanded a searching investigation into the alleged scandals of the Yukon. At the same time he announced himself in favor of the government's policy that the Yukon should pay for the Yukon. Maxwell, liberal, Vancouver, spoke denying the Yukon charges and generally supporting the position of the government. Montague, conservative, minister of agriculture for a time in the late government, followed. He has a reputation as a speaker, and on this occasion fully justified it, easily taking first place amongst the speakers on the opposition side. He devoted most of his attention to the proposed abolition of the senate. He dealt very cleverly with the recent speech of Bourassa, liberal, who declared himself for moderate protection, but for fear of losing the confidence of the manufacturers by his too strong denunciations of the government for having as alleged abandoned free trade, he declared that whenever the liberals wanted to increase the tariff in favor of the manufacturers the conservatives would aid them. Campbell, liberal, dealt with expenditure and trade. The liberals had not objected to expenditure but to waste and stealing. The people did not object to paying if they got what they were paying for as they were now. He showed how in some particulars the prosperity of the country was due to the action of the government. The reduction of the iron duties had enabled Canadian manufacturers to compete at home and abroad. As a sample a Toronto firm was now filling an order for radiators for Russia. The preferential tariff had secured for Canadian goods a preference in the British market. His firm was compelled to mark their sacks of flour for the English market, "American," as the English consumer did not know and did not want Canadian. But when the preferential tariff was adopted he got a cablegram from his English correspondents to mark his flour "Canadian." Preference in the British market meant a great expansion of trade for Canada, of which Canada was every day receiving the benefit.

There is yet no sign of the end of the debate, much less of the session. An amendment to the reply is to be moved to-day by the opposition which means no doubt another week or two of talk. Spring is coming very slowly. Sleights are still in use and there is plenty of snow, but the weather is becoming mild.

THE YUKON COMMISSION.

A. E. Lee, formerly of Edmonton, writes from Dawson under date of March 7th, stating, in regard to the commission of investigation: I had the pleasure of waiting upon the court on the opening day in answer to a subpoena which turned out, however, to have been served on the wrong man, consequently as I had walked 60 miles to attend court, it was of interest to know who would compensate me for the loss of time and out of pocket expenses incident to my journey to town. Mr. Ogilvie said he had no authority to pay witnesses their expenses even. Now what is the use of "posters" setting forth Mr. Ogilvie's invitation to men who know of any malfeasance connected with government officials to come forward and make their complaints known? In the first place most people are under the impression that the investigation is only a trap whereby the government can ascertain what claims have been procured illegally, and can scarcely realize that it is part of the British Empire. When this objection does not apply, it is reasonable to expect men to walk 50 or 100 miles, lose their employment, (if they are working for wages) or their time, (if working for themselves) expenses all the time they are kept in town, and receive no compensation whatever for all this, in order to get the privilege of telling Mr. Ogilvie that they were forced to pay someone at the post office $2 before they could obtain a letter, or $5 or $10 to the clerk of the gold commissioner's office in order to gain admission to that holy of holies?

STUCK IT RICE.

A. D. Osborne writes to R. Second under date of February 22nd, from "Dead Sure Gulch," stating in part: "We were located on a claim on a creek between the Felly and the McMillan rivers. We are about 25 yards below the Woodstock claim, where they are taking out from two to six ounces of gold per day to the man. They were three months getting down and are not at bedrock yet. I think we are almost dead sure to strike it. Dead Sure Gulch is all the name we have for our location. We are about 225 miles from the Liard post. I am in good health. We lost almost everything we had in Toad river. I lost even my boots. It is in the winter I ever saw run down hill. My address is care H. B. Co., Liard post, Mouth of Dease river, Cassiar, B. C., via Fort Wrangle, Yukon."

Mr. Osborne left Edmonton a little over a year ago, with three other Edmonton men. Two of them returned and Mr. Osborne joined another party and continued with them.

INDIAN MURDER.

Corp. Phillips, who arrested and brought in from Lesser Slave Lake the Indians accused of murdering one of their band who had turned "weigo," was in town from the Fort on Thursday. The murder was committed by a band of Crees who left Lesser Slave Lake for Smoky river, 75 miles northwest, on a hunting expedition two weeks ago. Moose-Ton, the Indian who was killed, lived in a shack on Smoky river and while the hunting band were in his vicinity he turned "weigo." This is simply a condition of temporary insanity, or as the Indians describe it, "being possessed of an evil spirit." While in this condition the affected one has a craving to kill and eat some human being, generally a child. Indians are naturally very superstitious and anything supernatural is sufficient to arouse intense excitement, bordering almost on panic. A "weigo" is a subject of particular dread. When Moose-Ton became affected they killed him, severed the head from the trunk and otherwise mutilated the body in a frightful manner. The excitement aroused by Moose-Ton was sufficient to unbalance the mind of Nap-asa, a member of the hunting band, who also turned "weigo" and attempted to kill and eat a 10-year-old Indian girl, who was with the party. The Indians had captured and were about to kill him when Corp. Phillips arrived on the scene from the Slave Lake post, and by his prompt and determined action prevented any further trouble. Two Indians who had committed the murder, were arrested and together with the second "weigo" were brought to Lesser Slave Lake. The return journey was made in company with the Indians who, thoroughly panic-stricken, sought the protection of the police. All of the gaudy colored finery with which they were possessed was hung on twigs along the route with a view to frightening the evil spirit away. At the lake Nap-asa, who had recovered his mental equilibrium, was examined by a doctor and pronounced perfectly sane. He was there discharged. The two accused murderers, Pay-a and Nappa-Sousses, and an aged witness Chuck-a-Chuck were brought on to the Fort by Corp. Phillips and Constable Warren, where the preliminary hearing of the charge against them will be proceeded with shortly.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

At the assembly on the 13th Premier Hanlan gave notice of a motion to appoint Mr. A. B. Gillis to the position of deputy speaker.

Replying to Mr. Gillis and Dr. Patrick the premier said that the overviews of local improvement districts had been requested to include in their assessment rolls all lands whether patented or not, or owned by railways or corporations, and school districts were to be asked to furnish similar information in their respective districts. He might say in this connection that a good deal had already been collected from colonization companies and otherwise for local improvements and it had been found that a notice from headquarters was more effective than the usual notices from the overviews. He would also add that lands owned by railways were held under different conditions. Sometimes they were patented, sometimes they were not; sometimes they were exempt and sometimes they were not. He had made arrangements that the school districts should have all these lands assessed with a view to having tax cases. In general the executive was trying to bring all lands under taxation and to give every assistance to promote local improvements.

Premier Hanlan moved the second reading of a bill to amend the law relating to elections. The procedure proposed by the bill did away with a certain amount of the preliminary business of posting and re-posting of the proclamations and divided the time between the issue of the writ and the polling in a different and a more convenient way. It was proposed to altogether do away with the proclamation and to advertise the issuing of the writ and the particulars of the coming election in every newspaper in the Territories. It had been said that the average elector was an average reader of the average newspaper. So there was no doubt that information about the election would thus become widely known. Then instead of the returning officer having six days to divide the district he would have seventy-two hours to make a preliminary division of the constituency into polling districts and post a copy in each district and then the nomination would take place in the usual way. On the twelfth day after nomination it would be open for anyone to add a further division of the constituency, that was to demand additional polling divisions, of course under certain restrictions, the twenty miles limit and the existence of a certain number of electors which was such a desirable feature in the old law but which somehow, was not included in the new seemed proper restrictions. He might add that in addition to the obvious advantages of the proposed change there would be a probable saving of four or five thousand dollars as the advertising in the newspapers would save at least one round journey in each district.

The second part of the bill dealt with recounts. At present the judge has no discretion, but must grant a request to re-open a poll on a cause shown, however few the voters there. The bill would give the judge a discretionary power. The bill provided that the judge should complete the recount before he declared any poll invalid and would not order the re-opening of a poll if he was convinced that the result of the election could not be affected thereby. There was another point in connection with the re-opening of a poll, viz., that persons not entitled to vote in the district should be permitted to vote simply because they had been made scrutineers or poll clerks or deputy returning officers. It was quite right such should vote at the first election but not that outsiders should be brought in to vote at a re-opened poll.

Mr. Villeneuve, St. Albert, was not satisfied with the amendment. Under the present law there was a first court of revision to decide whether a vote had been legally registered at an election and the elector was obliged to attend and prove his vote. He thought they could not do better than have the same law in the provinces, viz., a recent and protest. He did not see why a man should be dragged around the country to know whether or not he was elected. His amendment will be considered when the bill comes up in committee of the whole.
